
Where you need alphanumeric computer data, is in a branch office, divisional facility or a resident engineer's home – anyplace there is a telephone connection.

The Datanetics Series 100 Display is the only low cost (under $1800) computer transceiver device that closes the gap between mechanical hard-copy devices and large message CRT displays.

And it performs right on your desk top. Entirely self-contained with all electronics in one compact unit, or with remote keyboard. The Datanetics Series 100 provides excellent resolution of characters, easily readable in brightly lighted rooms.

Call your computer long distance, interrogate it, inform it, night or day, and get answers immediately – accurately where you are.

Tell us about your application idea; chances are we can suggest many other valuable uses for the Datanetics Series 100 Display terminal. You'll like it, and things will start happening faster – easier. Call (213) 542-4355 for all the details and an informative brochure.
